The final responsive document is the Report of Investigation (ROI) for case number OIG-I-17-0011 titled "Alleged Multiple Distributed Denial-Of-Service (DDoS) Attacks involving the FCC's Electronic Comment Filing System (ECFS)" or "ECFS DDos." It includes a cover letter addressed to the Inspector General from the Assistant Inspector General-Investigations and a written response from Chairman Pai. This document is available on the FCC website at <https://www.fcc.gov/sites/default/files/fcc-oig-roi-ecfs-ddos-08072018.pdf>. This document contains marked redactions pursuant to FOIA Exemptions 6, 7(C), and 7(E).

FOIA Exemption 6 protects “personnel and medical files and similar files the disclosure of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.”¹ Balancing the public’s right to disclosure against the individual’s right to privacy, we have determined release of this information would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. The redacted information includes the names and contact information of individuals. We have determined it is reasonably foreseeable disclosure would harm the privacy interest of the persons mentioned in these records, which Exemption 6 is intended to protect.

FOIA Exemption 7(C) protects “records or information compiled for law enforcement purposes [the production of which] could reasonably be expected to constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.”² Balancing the public’s right to disclosure against the individual’s right to privacy, we have determined release of this information would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. The redacted information includes the names of individuals who were/are employed at this agency. We have determined it is reasonably foreseeable disclosure would harm the Commission or the Federal government’s law enforcement activities, which Exemption 7 is intended to protect FOIA Exemption 7(E) protects “records or information compiled for law enforcement purposes [the production of which] would disclose techniques and procedures for law enforcement investigations or prosecutions, or would disclose guidelines for law enforcement investigations or prosecutions if such disclosure could reasonably be expected to risk a circumvention of the law.”³ Information redacted under this Exemption concerns specific techniques and procedures for law enforcement investigations and prosecutions that, if made public, may allow targets to avoid prosecution in future investigations. We have determined it is reasonably foreseeable that disclosure would harm the Commission or the Federal government’s law enforcement activities, which Exemption 7(E) is intended to protect.

The FOIA requires that “any reasonably segregable portion of a record” must be released after appropriate application of the Act’s exemptions.⁴ However, when nonexempt information is “inextricably intertwined” with exempt information, reasonable segregation is not possible.⁵ The redactions and/or withholdings made are consistent with our responsibility to determine if any segregable portions can be released. To the extent non-exempt material is not released, it is inextricably intertwined with exempt material.

We also reviewed the responsive document to determine if discretionary release is appropriate.⁶ The materials protected from disclosure under Exemption 6 are not appropriate for discretionary release in light of the personal privacy interests involved. The materials protected from disclosure under Exemption 7 are not appropriate for discretionary release in light of the law enforcement sensitivities involved.

We are required by both the FOIA and the Commission’s own rules to charge requesters certain fees associated with the costs of searching for, reviewing, and duplicating the sought after information.⁷ To calculate the appropriate fee, requesters are classified as: (1) commercial use requesters; (2) educational requesters, non-commercial scientific organizations, or representatives of the news media; or (3) all other requesters.⁸

Pursuant to section 0.466(a)(5)-(7) of the Commission's rules, you have been classified as category (2), "educational requesters, non-commercial scientific organizations, or representatives of the news media." As an "educational requester, non-commercial scientific organization, or representative of the news media," the Commission assesses charges to recover the cost of reproducing the records requested, excluding the cost of reproducing the first 100 pages. The production in response to your request did not involve more than 100 pages of duplication. Therefore, you will not be charged any fees.

You may seek review by filing an application for review with the Office of General Counsel. An application for review must be received by the Commission within 90 calendar days of the date of this letter.⁹ You may file an application for review by mailing the application to Federal Communications Commission, Office of General Counsel, 445 12th St SW, Washington, DC 20554, or you may file your application for review electronically by e-mailing it to FOIA-Appeal@fcc.gov. Please caption the envelope (or subject line, if via e-mail) and the application itself as "Review of Freedom of Information Action."

If you would like to discuss this response before filing an application for review to attempt to resolve your dispute without going through the appeals process, you may contact the Commission's FOIA Public Liaison for assistance at:
